CHARLES GERSHOM FALL.

WILLIAM LANE BOALT.

REPORT.

TO THE CLASS :—

At its last meeting, on Commencement Day, June 30, 1875, the Class appointed me its Secretary, in view of the expected resignation of Charles Harris Phelps, Esq., then absent in New York. Two days later Mr. Phelps delivered the Class property to me in New York; and his letter of resignation was published on the 1st of July.

The property received was the Class Book, a large, finely bound volume, containing in his own handwriting a sketch of each graduate's life; the files of letters in answer to inquiries for Reports; certain pamphlets and papers; and the sum of $694.68, invested in a mortgage of $1,700.00 on some mill property at Holbrook, Suffolk Co., Long Island, all in the name of our former Secretary. That part of this mortgage, namely the $694.68, which was the property of the Class, I had assigned to me "as Secretary of the Class of 1868, of Harvard University." The instrument bears date July 10, 1875, and is recorded in Suffolk County, L. I., libro 124, folio 8. A suit to foreclose this mortgage was pending at the time of the assignment, and is not yet determined.

With this exception the Treasury was empty; but I am happy to report the receipt of over $600.00 since the last Commencement, the funds being deposited in the Boston Five Cents Savings-Bank, and drawing interest at five per cent.

In 1869, "The Class Subscription Fund" was started, "for the purpose of providing the University with a fund, the income of which could be used at the discretion of the University government, for any purpose except the erection and repairs of buildings." To this fund, no Class since '48 had given so little as ours; the total contributed by '68, up to the year 1874, being but $360.00. Since then, however, the Class has taken its proper position, and, through the munificence of Mr. Halsey, mainly, has swelled its contributions to the sum of $2,195.00, all of which has been paid to the Trustees.

Had your Secretary been aware of the duties of his office, the labor it would involve, and the time it would require, he would not have assumed it. But once installed and under way, he has endeavored to exhibit a little "Harvard pluck," and to finish the work for the sake of the Class. If, in his strife for information, he has dunned you too persistently, you will admit the error of selecting a lawyer for the office; and if, in his Report, you discover but a dry compilation, you will miss the more keenly the one he succeeds.

Class Reports usually appear on Commencement Day; it was more convenient, however, to publish this before. You will observe that this Report covers the eight years since graduation, and, with scarce an exception, each sketch is rewritten, from the original materials on hand, and from other available information. The name of Browning is added to the list, and the names of W. H. King and of Clifford are omitted; the former from his wish to be a member of '67, the latter from his extraordinary letter intimating legal proceedings if his name is even mentioned.

Every reasonable effort has been made to render the work complete, and the length of each sketch is measured solely by the information received. From a few nothing has been heard, for not even the addresses could be had. No sketch is given of the deceased among the non-graduates, from the total absence of information; their lives, of course, not being in the Class Book.

I have seen fit, especially in behalf of the bachelors, to offer a likeness of our "Class Baby." It is a photograph taken within a month. The boy, for he is no longer baby, is booked for the Class of '90.

And now, in wishing you all contentment and happiness, I have for yourselves and the Class, to make these requests:—

1st. Notify me of any errors or omissions in this Report.

2d. So far as is agreeable, keep me informed of the events of your lives, and promptly send me any change in address.

Very truly,

Your Classmate and Secretary,

ALFRED D. CHANDLER.

CLASS OF 1868.

TALBOT JONES ALBERT. Born in Baltimore, Md., February 16, 1847.

After graduation he entered the Dane Law School, at Cambridge, receiving the degree of LL.B., at Commencement, 1870. In August following, he was admitted to the Bar, in Boston; and, returning that month to Baltimore, was admitted, on courtesy, to the Baltimore Bar, without an examination, November 15, 1870. On the 1st of December, 1870, he entered the U. S. District Attorney's office, in Baltimore, where he has since remained.

His first client was hung; his execution being the first in the State after Albert's admission to practice. The victim was a lusty negro, who brutally assaulted an old man and his niece, "in a gloomy wood, on a lonely road, at two o'clock of an August morning, whither the injured pair had gone to pick blackberries." After the execution, he made an effort to secure the skull to be put up, as he says, "in some conspicuous place in my office as an attractive advertisement to future clients."

His next important cause was more successful; and by it was determined what constitutes the contract of marriage in the State of Maryland. The case is Denison v. Denison, 35th Maryland Reports, and his argument in the lower court lasted two days. In this he was associated with I. N. Steele, Esq., of cerebro-spinal meningitis renown, in the famous case against Mrs. Wharton, for the alleged poisoning of General Ketchum.

During the winter of 1874, he was in Washington, residing with his family at 14 La Fayette Place, a house celebrated for the characters who have in turn occupied it. His father had been elected a member of the House of Representatives, and Albert enjoyed the instruction and festivities of the capital, now opened to him. His pleasures were marred, however, by the death of his sister, Mrs. Alexander Bliss, wife of Col. Bliss, Secretary of Legation to the German Empire. After his Washington experience, he returned to his practice at Baltimore, where he continues in the office of the U. S. Attorney for Maryland.

He is still unmarried, though he writes of this that he is "homo qui et amari et diligere vellet."

In 1871, he received the degree of A.M. from Harvard.

Address: 52 Cathedral Street, or, U. S. Court House, Baltimore, Md.

WILLIAM BROWN ALLEN. Born in Charlton, Mass., August 5, 1840.

After graduation he was appointed Superintendent of Schools in the town of Beverly, Mass., a position which he held till December, 1869, when he removed to the city of Somerville, Mass., where he has ever since been engaged in teaching. He belongs to no secret organizations or religious society, has taken no degrees, and is unmarried.

Address: Somerville, Mass.

JAMES BARR AMES. Born in Boston, Mass., June 22, 1846.

The year after graduation he was an assistant instructor in Mr. E. S. Dixwell's Private Latin School, in Boston; he then went to Europe for study and travel, and was away from July 1, 1869, to September 1, 1870. On the 1st of April, 1871, he was appointed a Tutor in French and German, at Harvard, and continued as instructor in these branches through the academical year of 1871-72. During the year 1872-73, he supplied Assistant Professor Adams's place in the Historical Department of the University, and passed the summer of 1872 in Germany.

On his return from Europe, in 1870, he entered the Dane Law School, at Cambridge, and studied law in connection with his duties as Tutor in the University. In June, 1872, at the end of his second year in the Law School, he received the degree of LL.B., but remained there a third year as a student ; and, at Commencement, 1873, he was appointed Assistant Professor of Law, at the Dane Law School, for five years, and is now actively engaged in the duties of his position, having lectured on Contracts, Torts, Civil Procedure, Bills and Notes, and Sales of Personal Property.

Address : Cambridge, Mass.

ALBERT HOLMES AMMIDOWN. Born in Southbridge, Mass., August 7, 1846.

He first spent a year at the Dane Law School, Cambridge, and then went to New York City, where, in the autumn of 1869, he was admitted to the Bar, and entered the law office of Townsend, Dyett, & Goldsmith, 247 Broadway, New York, remaining there till December, 1871. In that month he formed a law partnership with his classmate, John Todhunter, under the firm name of Ammidown & Todhunter, at 115 Broadway, New York. On the 11th of September, 1875, this firm was dissolved, and Ammidown now practises alone at 206 Broadway, in the "Evening Post" building.

In 1871, he received the degree of A.M. from Harvard.

Address : 206 Broadway, New York City.

HORACE BACON. Born in Hallowell, Me., July 1, 1846.

On the 1st of December, 1868, he entered the office of Gardner, Bacon, & Co., at 123 Pearl Street, New York, as a clerk. He became a junior partner in the firm of Bacon, Hollis, & Co., of New York, upon its organization, August 31, 1871, the firm doing a commission business in cotton and other Southern products. At present he is associated with Mr. George Butler, having offices at 130 Pearl Street, New York, where they are engaged as Public Accountants.

In the winter of 1873-74, he visited the Southern States, passing through Memphis, New Orleans, and Galveston, spending about two months in Texas, and returning to New York by way of New Orleans, Columbus, and Savannah. In December, 1874, he again went to Texas, arriving home in New York in March, 1875.

He received the degree of A.M. from Harvard, in 1872; and he has long been an active member of the New York 7th Regiment.

Address: 20 East 22d Street, New York City.

GEORGE FERDINAND BECKER. Born in New York City, January 5, 1847.

Soon after graduation he went to Europe, spending one year at Heidelberg, taking the degree of Ph. D., summa cum laude, in Chemistry, Mathematics, and Mineralogy, in 1869; and passing one year in Berlin, studying at the Königlichen Berg Aademie, where he obtained certificates of proficiency in various branches of his profession, that of Mining Engineer.

At the outbreak of the French and Prussian war, he obtained a position on the Crown Prince's staff, as reporter for the "New York Herald." He was at the battle of Woerth, and under fire at Strasbourg; but, soon after the fall of that city, returned to Berlin, to continue his studies.

The year 1871 he spent in travelling in northern and central Europe, returning to America in 1872. "Since then," he writes, "I have not left the United States. I spent a couple of years in the Western and Middle States, in the exercise of my profession, and came out to the Pacific coast more than a year since in consequence of a call from the State University of California, where I at present represent Metallurgy. Though I have spent some time in the deserts of Nevada, I have not even been shot or robbed. No wife graces my fireside. I have neither made nor lost a fortune. My publications comprise only a few technical papers. And I can, therefore, only communicate to you my hopes that at the end of another lustrum I may be able to render a better and more entertaining account of myself." Address: Oakland, Cal.

WILLIAM FREDERICK BENNETT. Born in Brighton, Mass., April 13, 1847.

For a year and a half he was a member of the Dane Law School, Cambridge, where he received the degree of LL.B., in the summer of 1870. He then entered the law office of Dehon, Bryant, & Goodwin, 69 Sears' Building, Boston, and was admitted to the Bar September 19, 1871. Commencing practice at once, he continued in it until July 1, 1873, when he was obliged from want of health to desist. In August, 1873, after a hemorrhage of the lungs, he went to Aiken, S. C., remaining there through the winter of 1873-74, and improving sufficiently to return to Boston in June of 1874. That summer he passed in travelling by private conveyance through the Berkshire hills of Massachusetts. Upon the approach of winter, he again sought relaxation and health in the South, principally at Jacksonville, Fla., and in June, 1875, he returned North to pass the summer at the White Mountains. On the 1st of December, 1875, he went to California, and selected a winter home at Santa Barbara, in the southern part of that State. Here his health was restored, under the refreshing influence of a superb climate and charming scenery; and he hopes that any of his classmates who have a tendency to pulmonary complaints will seek that "health-giving city of the Pacific." He will be in Boston in June of this year, and then arrange for another winter at Santa Barbara.

In 1871, he received the degree of A.M. from Harvard.

Address: Care I. H. Sweetser, 69 Sears' Building, Boston, Mass.

WILLIAM LANE BOALT. Born in Norwalk, Ohio, July 4, 1846.

No answer has been received to the circulars sent him, but from the last Report it appears, that "In the summer of 1868 he went abroad to continue his studies at the German Universities, where he remained 'wisely mingling the pleasant compound of travel and study.'" From his brother Hon. John H. Boalt, of San Francisco, I also learn that, while in Germany, he devoted himself to medicine, and returned to America in the spring of 1871. In May of that year, he went to California by the overland route, and after a visit of two or three months returned via Isthmus of Panama. In the autumn of 1871, he again went to Germany, and continued his studies at Munich. In the autumn of 1872, he went to Constantinople, thence to India, China, Japan, across the Pacific to San Francisco, and then to Boston, making the tour of the world. Early in 1873, he once more went abroad, and at present is studying in Vienna, and thus it is that he "wisely mingles the pleasant compound of travel and study."

Address : Anglo-Austrian Bank, Vienna, Austria.

ROBERT APTHORP BOIT. Born in Boston, Mass., April 29, 1846.

After graduation he went into a general commission business at Savannah, Ga., and is now a partner in the firm of Boit & McKenzie, of that city. He has passed every summer in the North, and his travels have extended between Massachusetts and Florida only.

On the 15th of January, 1874, he was married to Miss Georgia Anderson Mercer, a daughter of General Hugh W. Mercer, of Fredericksburg, Va., and Mary Anderson, of Savannah.

Address : Boit & McKenzie, Savannah, Ga.

FREDERICK BROOKS. Born in Boston, Mass., July 17, 1848.

Studied Civil Engineering at the School of Industrial Science of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology during the academical years of 1868-69 and 1869-70. From August, 1870, to January, 1871, he practised engineering, and from January 30, 1871, to July 8, 1875, he was employed as an assistant in the civil engineers' and surveyors' office of Shedd & Sawyer, 7 Court Square, Boston. From July 9, 1875, to the present time he has been an assistant engineer on the Newton (Mass.) water-works.

He was one of a committee of three, with Mr. Fred'k Rice and Mr. Clemens Herschel, of the Boston Society of Civil Engineers, "to communicate with other organizations, with a view to securing united action in petitioning Congress to fix a date after which the metric weights and measures shall be the only legal standards." This committee reported on the 10th of January, 1876; and accompanying its report was an appropriate memorial to Congress in aid of the metric system.

Residence : 130 Boylston Street, Boston, Mass.

Address : Care Francis A. Brooks, Esq., Boston, Mass.

AUGUSTUS GEORGE BULLOCK. Born in Enfield, Conn., June 2, 1847.

After graduation he travelled extensively through Europe for a year; and, in the autumn and winter of 1869, read law at No. 17 Nassau Street, New York. In February, 1870, he again visited Europe, remaining there several months. Upon his return, he settled in Worcester, Mass., and became associated with the banking firm of Rice & Whiting, of that city. In April, 1875, he was admitted to the Bar; and since then has been practising law in Worcester.

He was married on the 4th of October, 1871, to Mary Chandler, daughter of George and Josephine Rose Chandler, of Worcester. His children are Chandler Bullock, born August 24, 1872, and Alexander Hamilton Bullock, Jr., born November 7, 1874.

In 1871, he received the degree of A.M. from Harvard.

Address: Worcester, Mass.

JOHN TILTON BUSIEL. Born in Guilford, N. H., October 12, 1847.

After graduation he was connected with the woollen mills of John W. Busiel & Co., at Laconia, N. H., and was an agent of the Laconia Gas-Light Company. He is now a partner in the "Granite Hosiery Mills," of Laconia. At the annual town election, in March, 1874, he was chosen one of the Board of Selectmen and an Assessor.

On the 6th of July, 1870, at Schaghticoke, N. Y., he was married to Miss Nettie Marian Pinkham, daughter of James E. and Sarah Brock Pinkham, of that place; and he now has one child, Helen Juliette, born May 24, 1875.

Address: Laconia, N. H.

JOHN FRANCIS CASEY. Born in Bedford, Mass., March 16, 1845.

Ever since graduation he has been engaged in teaching; first at Canton, Mass., about fourteen miles from Boston, where he was the Principal of the High School; and for the last four years at the English High School in Boston, where he is a sub-Master.

On the 1st of December, 1868, he was married in Charlestown, Mass., to Miss Elizabeth S. Puffer, daughter of Reuben and Elizabeth M. Puffer, of Watertown, Mass. He has three children: Grace E. H., born July 27, 1869; Mary P., born ; and Ruby F., born .

In 1871, he received the degree of A.M. from Harvard.

Address: 59 High Street, Charlestown, Mass.

ALFRED DUPONT CHANDLER. Born in Boston, Mass., May 18, 1847.

Commenced reading law August 10, 1868, at home. January 1, 1869, entered the law office of Abbot & Jones, 13 Pemberton Square, Boston. June 28, 1869, entered the law office of Richard H. Dana, Jr., 30 Court Street, Boston. September 16, 1869, entered the Dane Law School, at Cambridge, where he remained for three months, when, having been admitted to the Bar, December 20, he opened a law office with his father at 14 Devonshire Street, Boston, January 1, 1870. During the year 1870, he was engaged in practice, and for several weeks in the summer was in business at North Lawrence, Northern New York, having charge of an extensive tract and of lumber mills; and, in October and November of that year, was in Illinois and Missouri on real-estate business. February 2, 1871, he entered the law offices of Porter, Lowry, & Soren, 78 Broadway, New York City, remaining there till April 22, when he was occupied till the following December in two extended journeys through the Southern and Western States, in the examination of land-titles, and as agent. On the 1st of January, 1872, he opened a law office by himself at 5 Tremont Street, Boston, and there continued till the 1st of October, 1875, when he removed to his present office at 150 Devonshire Street, Boston, where he is now practising his profession.

On the 23d of October, 1874, he took a voyage to South America for his health, crossing the Isthmus of Panama, and making a short trip out on the Pacific Ocean, arriving home November 23; and on the 7th of April, 1875, he took another voyage, to the Bermudas, arriving home on the 29th of the same month.

Holds no office other than that of Trustee of the Brookline

(Mass.) Public Library, and that of Secretary and Solicitor of the Brookline Land Company. Has been a frequent contributor to the press, principally upon matters of a municipal interest.

Residence, Brookline, Mass.

Address: 150 Devonshire Street, Boston, Mass.

GEORGE TICKNOR CURTIS, JR. Born in Boston, Mass., January 28, 1847.

In September, 1868, he went to Europe, spending two years in travel and in the study of the Roman Law, at Heidelberg and Berlin. On his return to New York, in September, 1870, he entered the Columbia College Law School, and received the degree of LL.B. May 9, 1874, when he was soon after admitted to the Bar. He is now practising his profession at No. 9 Nassau Street, New York.

He was married, July 15, 1872, at St. Luke's Church, Philadelphia, to Miss Edith Ivins Shreve, second daughter of the late Alexander Shreve and the late Edith Ann (Ivins) Shreve, of Mt. Holly, N. J. He has two children: Joseph Robbins Curtis, born October 2, 1873, and Mary Story Curtis, born April 8, 1875.

Residence at Morristown, N. J.

Address: 9 Nassau Street, New York City, or Morristown, N. J.

ELBRIDGE GERRY CUTLER. Born in Farmington, Me., September 7, 1846.

For three years after graduation he lived in Boston, and was a student at the Harvard Medical School. During the winter of 1869-70, he was Demonstrator's Assistant in that School. From April, 1870, to October, 1870, he was Surgeon's Assistant in the Massachusetts General Hospital, Out Patient Department; in the winter of 1870-71, he was the Assistant of the Lecturer on Physiology; and from May, 1871, till May, 1872, was one of the Medical House Pupils of the Massachusetts General Hospital.

In June, 1872, having received the degree of M.D., he went to Europe, spending two years in the study of his profession at Berlin, Prague, Strasbourg, Vienna, London, Edinburgh, and Paris. During the recesses, and between terms, he travelled in France, Belgium, Germany, Italy, England, Scotland, and elsewhere, taking medical surveys.

In the autumn of 1874, he returned to America, and settled in Watertown, Mass., where he remained in the practice of his profession for four months. In February, 1875, he removed to Boston, where he now practises.

On the 4th of May, 1875, he was appointed Pathologist of the Carney Hospital, at South Boston. On the 1st of July, 1875, he was appointed District Physician of the Boston Dispensary; and, on the 20th of January, 1876, he received the further appointment of Visiting Physician to the Home for Aged Women, Revere Street, Boston.

In the spring of 1872, he became a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society.

Address: 123 Boylston Street, Boston, Mass.

JAMES HENRY DAVENPORT. Born in Roxbury, Mass., April 18, 1846.

He spent the two years following graduation at the Harvard Medical School. In the summer of 1870, he was for several months a resident at the Retreat for the Insane, Hartford, Conn., "though not as a patient;" his instructor at Hartford being Dr. J. S. Butler. During the winter of 1870-71, he attended lectures at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, in New York City; and, in March, 1871, was graduated there, continuing under the instruction of Dr. Willard Parker, of New York. On the 1st of April, 1871, the Board of Directors of Public Institutions elected him as Assistant Resident Physician to the Deer Island Hospital, in Boston Harbor. Here he continued for a year, when he resigned, and practised for a few months in the office of Dr. H. I. Bowditch, in Boston; after which, he continued in practice at 496 Tremont Street, Boston. Of late, his residence has been in Boston Highlands, though he retains an office in the city at 220 Harrison Avenue, and devotes himself chiefly to the treatment of hernia and kindred surgical diseases. During the year 1873-74, he was also District Physician to the Boston Dispensary.

In 1871, he received the degree of A.M. from Harvard; and, as a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, is entitled to an M.M.S.S.

On the 3d of June, 1873, he was married, in Boston, to Miss Elizabeth Wyman Bacon, daughter of William and Mary Bacon, of Boston Highlands. He has one child, William Bacon Davenport, born November 30, 1874.

Address: 220 Harrison Avenue, Boston, Mass.

* DANIEL HENRY DAVIS. Born in Roxbury, Mass., September 5, 1844. Died at his father's residence, in Roxbury, September 18, 1869, at the age of twenty-five.

He was the eldest son of Daniel Clark and Elizabeth (Sweetser) Davis, of Roxbury, Mass. His ancestors for many generations were residents of Massachusetts; and John Raymond, one of the sufferers at the battle of Lexington, 19th of April, 1775, was a progenitor of his. He was fitted for college at the Roxbury Latin School, with his classmate, J. H. Davenport, and he there enjoyed the benefits of a superior preparation, having for an instructor a gentleman of more than ordinary capacity and success in his profession, Mr. William C. Collar.

While in college, from force of circumstances, he was obliged to employ the vacations and some part of the regular term in gaining his support. He was engaged, on several occasions, by Mr. C. U. Cotting, at 9 Tremont Street, Boston, as a clerk; and he also experienced the practical part of a farmer's life.

At the end of his college course, he received from Mr. Sibley, the Librarian, a most flattering certificate of the amount of reading and study he had accomplished out of the regular curriculum; and Professor Torrey also favored him with a like mark of his appreciation of his endeavors in acquiring a knowledge of History.

After graduation he entered the Dane Law School, at Cambridge, where he remained for a year. In August, 1869, he was attacked with a bilious fever; this soon turned to typhoid; and, on the 18th of September following, he died, being unconscious for the three days preceding. He was buried at Forest Hills Cemetery.

A meeting of the class, in memoriam, was held at Cambridge, on the 2d of October, 1869, at which the following resolutions were adopted : —

“Whereas, it has pleased our Heavenly Father to visit so soon again our narrow circle, and call from us our beloved classmate, DANIEL HENRY DAVIS,

“Resolved, That we see in this second visitation of Divine Providence, in the short space of a few weeks, a continued and awful warning of the shortness and uncertainty of life; and that we furthermore recognize in it a solemn admonition that we should enjoy this life but as a preparation for a better and happier world to come.

“Resolved, That, while our classmate was with us, we saw in him the dearest qualities of a friend; and, in his faithfulness and untiring perseverance as a student, the earnest of a bright and successful future.

“Resolved, That we sympathize most sincerely with his bereaved family in their deep affliction.

“Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to his family, and be printed in the ‘Boston Daily Advertiser’ and the ‘Evening Transcript.’”

JOHN WARE DENNY. Born in Boston, Mass., July 10, 1847.

He spent the winter of 1868–69 at home. In the spring of 1869, he travelled in the South, returning home in the summer. On the 13th of November, 1869, he sailed for Europe, and extended his travels to Egypt and Syria, reaching home again on the 9th of July, 1870. On the 1st of January, 1871, he became a partner in the firm of Denny, Rice, & Co., commission merchants for the sale of wool, at 49 Franklin Street, Boston, in which business he still continues; the firm having removed, since the great fire of 1872, to 132 Federal Street, Boston.

On the 13th of May, 1874, he again went abroad, spending six months in Great Britain, from May to November, 1874; two months in Egypt, Constantinople, and Athens, during February and March, 1875; and nine months “on the Continent.”

On the 21st of April, 1874, he was married, at the St. James Church, Boston Highlands, to Miss Mary Chester Hasbrouck, daughter of Jonathan Howard and Hannah Chester Hasbrouck.

In 1871, he received the degree of A.M. from Harvard.

Address: Denny, Rice, & Co., 132 Federal Street, Boston, Mass.

CHARLES FLETCHER DOLE. Born in Brewer, Me., May 17, 1845.

The first year after graduation he was an assistant teacher in Mr. Noble's School for Boys, in Boston. In the autumn of 1869, he entered the Theological Seminary, at Andover, Mass., and remained through the course of three years. For eight weeks, in the winter of 1870-71, he was the Principal of the High School, at Newport, R. I., continuing his theological studies, meanwhile, with Rev. D. T. Thayer, of Newport. In January, 1873, he accepted, till the end of the academical year, the chair of Greek in the University of Vermont, at Burlington.

On the 4th of March, 1873, he was married to Miss Frances Drummond, daughter of Rev. James and Esther A. Drummond, formerly of Springfield, Mass.

In December, 1873, he went to Portland, Me., to supply the pulpit of the Plymouth Congregational Church; and, in March following, having received a call to become pastor of that church, which was accepted, he was formally ordained on the 22d of April, 1874.

He received the degree of A.M. from Harvard, in 1871.

Address : 315 Cumberland Street, Portland, Me.

CHARLES WILLIAM DURHAM. Born in Bangor, Me., February 19, 1847.

For two years after graduation he studied and travelled in Europe, and then returned to America to practise his profession of Civil Engineering. During a portion of the year 1871, he was in Nebraska, in charge of parties engaged in locating and constructing the Burlington & Missouri R.R., from Lincoln to Fort Kearney. He then "lived in a tent, and experienced the customary hardships of a frontier life." From July, 1871, to June, 1873, he was employed as U. S. Assistant Engineer on the improvement of the Rock Island rapids of the Mississippi River. He then served the Government, in charge of the survey of the Ouachita River, in Arkansas and Louisiana, spending the winter of 1873-74, and the following spring, at Vicksburg, Miss. In the summer of 1874, he returned to Rock Island, Ill., and has since been employed on the surveys and improvements of the Mississippi River, between St. Paul, Minn., and Grafton, III. During the past year, he has had the charge of these works, as well as of surveys at Burlington and Fort Madison, Iowa, and at Winona, Minn.

On the 18th of October, 1875, at Rock Island, Ill., he was married to Miss Mary E. Brackett, eldest daughter of Joseph W. and Eliza M. Brackett, all of Rock Island.

Address : Rock Island, Ill.

AARON MARSHALL ELLIOTT. Born in Elizabeth City, Pasquotank County, N. C., June 24, 1844.

He entered the class in its Senior year. No answer has been received to the circulars sent him; but it appears, from various sources, that after graduation he visited Europe, accompanying the sons of a Mr. Parker, of Boston, as their private tutor. Upon the breaking out of the war between France and Prussia, he was in Paris with his pupils, who then returned to America. He, however, remained till the twenty-four hours' notice to leave was given. He then visited Italy, Greece, and Germany, devoting himself to the study of European languages, with the intent of becoming a Professor of Comparative Philology upon his final return to America. He is the author of at least one book, and of others, perhaps; but the titles are not known. He is a member of the religious Society of Friends, commonly called Quakers: is a Mason, and, probably, an Odd-Fellow. It seems that in June, 1875, he returned to America, but went abroad again in October following, and is now living at Munich, in Bavaria. He has formed a connection with the John Hopkins University, of Baltimore, Md., and is now in Europe in the interests of that University. He is expected in America next autumn.

Address : At present, Schraudolph Strasse, 21 III., Munich, Bavaria.

EDWARD CLARKE ELLIS. Born in Northampton, Mass., May 30, 1848.

For four months he was an office boy in the employ of Edward Page & Co., Boston, importers of English and Swedish iron. In December, 1868, he went to Lewiston, Me., to learn the business of cotton manufacturing. He entered the Bates Mills, at Lewiston, as a common laborer, at five shillings a day, his working hours being from six to six. There he remained for two years, working up successively through the carding, spinning, dressing, weaving, and finishing rooms, by which time he was fitted for the position of overseer. He then went to the Indian Orchard Mills, near Springfield, Mass., where he was employed in the counting-room for a few months. In 1871, he was a student for several months at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, confining his attention to Mechanical Draughting. He was then selected by the White Manufacturing Co., of Rockville, Conn., as its local agent there for six months. In December, 1871, he returned to Boston, and has since been in the employ of Jas. L. Little & Co., Agents of the Pacific Mills, at Lawrence, Mass., in connection with the manufacturing department.

In June, 1875, he went abroad to make a study of manufacturing and of fabrics, and travelled through Ireland, England, and Scotland, also making the trip of the Rhine.

He is engaged to be married to Miss H. L. Ely, daughter of Hon. Samuel P. Ely, of Marquette, Mich.

He is a member of the Somerset Club, and Union Boat Club, of Boston, having held the position of Captain and Director in the latter.

In 1872, he received the degree of A.M. from Harvard.

Address: 24 Franklin Street, or, 106 Marlboro' Street, Boston, Mass.

FRANK IZARD EUSTIS. Born in West Point, N. Y., October 3, 1847.

Early in the summer of 1868, he went aboard the U. S. Steam Frigate "Guerrière," as one of the staff of Admiral Davis, and remained until the summer of 1869, visiting Rio Janeiro, Buenos Ayres, and other ports in the South Atlantic.

In November, 1869, he entered the office of Naylor & Co., proprietors of the Norway Iron Works, Boston, where he continued till the 30th of June, 1873. On the 1st of August, 1873, he entered the office of W. R. Ellis & Co., 17 Batterymarch Street, Boston. This firm became a corporation, January 1, 1874, under the name of Boston Rolling Mills, and he continues in its service as Assistant Superintendent at the Mill.

On the 28th of December, 1874, at Cambridge, Mass., he was married to Cora Spelman, daughter of J. M. and M. H. Spelman, of Cambridge. He has a daughter, Martha Spelman Eustis, born October 23, 1875. His residence is at No. 3 Ellsworth Avenue, Cambridgeport.

In 1871, he received the degree of A.M. from Harvard.

Address: Boston Rolling Mills, 17 Batterymarch Street, Boston, Mass.

CHARLES GERSHOM FALL. Born in Malden, Mass., June 22, 1845.

During the years 1868-69, he studied law in the office of Hon. William A. Richardson, 5 Tremont Street, Boston, and was admitted to the Bar July 12, 1869. He at once "went West prospecting," and practised law in St. Louis till June, 1870, spending a part of the winter in New Orleans, and travelling in the southern States. Returning to Boston, he took his present office, at 7 Court Square, in September, 1870; and, during the year ensuing, also attended such lectures at the Dane Law School, in Cambridge, as he thought profitable. He received the appointment of Master in Chancery, April 12, 1872.

The summer of 1875 he spent in Europe, and may do the same this summer.

In 1871, he received the degree of A.M. from Harvard.

In 1870, he "joined the Masons and lost one back tooth."

Address: 7 Court Square, Boston, Mass.

JAMES PHILLIPS FARLEY, JR. Born in Chelsea, Mass., November 12, 1848.

From the 15th of August, 1868, to the 1st of September, 1869, he studied law in the office of T. C. Wakefield, 22 School Street, Boston. He then went to the Dane Law School, at Cambridge, where he remained till February, 1870, when he entered the office of R. M. Morse, Jr., 7 Court Square, Boston. On the 1st of October, 1870, he was admitted to the Bar, when he at once commenced business for himself, and has since been practising his profession at No. 3 Barristers' Hall, 7 Court Square, Boston, having his office with Alfred Hemenway, Esq. His residence is at Chelsea.

In 1871, he received the degree of A.M. from Harvard.

Address : 7 Court Square, Boston, Mass.

ALDEN BRADFORD FARNHAM. Born in Bath, Me., October 11, 1844.

During the first year after graduation, he was a teacher at Urbana, Ohio ; after which he went into business in Kansas City, Mo. He soon abandoned this ; and, returning to the East, resumed the occupation of a teacher, securing the position of Principal of the High School, at Middletown, N. Y., in the summer of 1870. In February, 1871, he was elected Superintendent of Schools, in that place. During the past three years, he has been in New York City ; and, in the autumn of 1875, was graduated at the Bellevue Hospital Medical College, of New York. He is still teaching, and hopes to practise his profession of medicine in due time.

In 1871, he received the degree of A.M. from Harvard.

Address : Room 7, 52 East 23d Street, New York City.

CHARLES OLIN FILES. Born in Portland, Me., February 12, 1847.

He entered the class of '67, and remained with it for one year, when he left college for three years, joining the class of '68 in its Senior year.

After graduation he entered the Portland School for Medical Instruction, remaining through the October term of that year. At the same time, he arranged to enter the office of Dr. Geo. F. French (H. U., 1859), of Portland, with whom he remained till he was graduated in medicine. On the 4th of December, 1868, he was a matriculate at the Medical Department of the University of Pennsylvania, and attended its lectures for a session. During the spring and summer of 1869, he pursued his studies in Portland. In October, 1869, he commenced attending lectures at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, in New York, where he received the degree of "Medicinæ Doctor," March 1, 1870. Returning to Portland,

* JOHN BALDWIN GILMAN. Born in Chicago, Ill., July 5, 1847. Died at his home, in Montpelier, Vermont, May 18, 1873, at the age of twenty-five.

He was the son of Marcus Davis and Maria M. (Baldwin) Gilman. The Gilmans came from Norfolk County, in England, first landed in America, in May, 1638, and settled in Hingham, Mass. In 1647, a portion of the family settled in Exeter, N. H.; and, in 1730, a large number of the Gilmans, with others, settled at Gilmanton, N. H., where his paternal grandfather, Dr. John Gilman, was born.

His maternal grandfather, Daniel Baldwin, was one of the first settlers of Montpelier, Vt. Of his two great-great-grandfathers, on his mother's side, one was Eleazer Wheelock, the founder and first president of Dartmouth College, whose son, James, succeeded him in that office; the other was named Kinsman, a colonel in the Colonial Army, and who was killed at the battle of Bunker Hill, 17th of June, 1775.

Gilman attended school at Chicago (whither his parents had removed from Vermont) until he was ten years old, when he was sent to a boarding-school, kept by Rev. Charles Fay (H. U., 1829), at St. Albans, Vt. He then attended the Lombard University, at Galesburg, Ill., where he remained till the spring of 1864. On his "papers of dismissal" from there, he was admitted to the Freshman class, at Harvard, in 1864, after being tutored for two months by Mr. John E. Hudson (H. U., 1862). While at school, he received two or three prizes for declamation; and, while at the Lombard University, was a member of several college societies. In his Sophomore year, at Harvard, he was a member of the "Institute of 1770;" and, in his Junior year, of the "O. K." He was also one of our Class Committee of three. During his Freshman year, at Harvard, he roomed alone at 19 Gray's Hall; and, during the three succeeding years, his chum was W. L. Boalt, for the Sophomore year at 16 Massachusetts Hall, the Junior year at 9 Hollis Hall, and the Senior year at 17 Holworthy Hall. On account of heavy deductions during the last term of Junior year, he was suspended for the greater part of the first term, Senior year; and, at the time of graduation, it seems that he had "no well-defined or fully formed plans for the future;" and had no intention of studying a profession, expecting to be engaged in business.

After graduation he went abroad, with his chum, and was occupied till February, 1870, in travelling and in study, at Heidelberg and at Universities in other parts of Germany. He then returned to Boston, where he was in business till the autumn of 1870, when he entered the Harvard Medical School; and, in February following, went again to Europe, where he obtained the position of Surgeon in the Prussian Army, at one of the hospitals in Berlin, where his success was such that he was one of the few Americans who received the Iron Cross from the Emperor of Germany, during the war that year with France.

In the autumn of 1871, he returned to America, and commenced the practice of his profession, in Topeka, Kan. He also became Professor of Military and Minor Surgery, with Ophthalmology, in the College of Physicians and Surgeons, at Topeka. The varioloid breaking out in Topeka, his services were in constant requisition. His system appears, however, to have been exhausted from over-work; and, shortly after, he was attacked with pleuro-pneumonia. He then went to Montpelier, Vt., arriving on the 25th of April, 1873; and, on the 18th of May following, died. His remains were buried in Green Mound Cemetery.

MALCOLM SCOLLAY GREENOUGH. Born in Cambridge, Mass., August 31, 1848.

For four months after graduation he was confined with a lame knee. Upon recovery from this, he entered the office of the Boston Gas-Light Company, 24 West Street, Boston. During the winter of 1870-71, he was in the iron foundry works of Jesse W. Starr & Sons, Camden, N. J. Returning to Boston, he resumed his position at the Gas Company's office, acting as draughtsman and chemist, to fit himself for which he had previously passed several hours a day, during one winter, in the laboratory and drawing room of the Institute of Technology, in Boston. At present, his duties are that of Assistant Engineer, and, at times, of Treasurer to the Company.

On the 20th of June, 1872, he was married, at Worcester, Mass., to Miss Lizzie Tiffany, daughter of P. Dexter and Hannah Kerr Tiffany, of St. Louis, Mo.

In July, 1869, he visited the coal mines of Nova Scotia. He has travelled in Canada, and through most of the States; and, in the summer of 1874, went abroad for four months, visiting England, Belgium, Holland, France, Germany, and Switzerland. He is a member of the New England Association of Gas Engineers.

Address: 24 West Street, Boston, Mass.

JAMES GRIER. Born in Noblestown, Penn., September 2, 1845.

After graduation he spent two years at the Dane Law School, Cambridge, at the same time acting as a Proctor in the University. Upon leaving the Law School, he went to Pittsburg, Penn., where he commenced the practice of his profession, and has since continued in it with success.

Address: 144 Fifth Avenue, Pittsburg, Penn.

FREDERICK ROBERT HALSEY. Born in Ithaca, N. Y., March 28, 1847.

In the autumn of 1868, he entered the Columbia College Law School, of New York, and was graduated in the spring of 1870. In September following, he entered the law office of Barlow, Hyatt, & Olney, 21 Park Row, N. Y., and remained there till April, 1872, when he had become managing clerk for the firm. In October, 1870, he received the appointment of Notary Public, which was affirmed by the Senate, January 31, 1871.

On the 24th of April, 1872, he was married to Miss Emma Gertrude Keep, daughter of the late Henry Keep and his wife, Emma A. Woodruff, of New York.

On the 10th of May, 1872, he went to Europe, returning December 28, 1872. On the 29th of July, 1873, he started, with his wife, for a journey round the world, by the overland route to San Francisco, from whence he sailed for Japan, September 30, 1873; then, by the way of China, Cochin China, Java, Sumatra, Province Wellesley, Ceylon, India, Arabia, Egypt, the Grecian Archipelago, Asia Minor, Constantinople, up the Danube to Pesth, and across Europe to Liverpool, when they sailed for New York, landing on the 19th of October, 1874.

On the 15th of February, 1875, he journeyed, with his wife, to the Southern States, returning to New York, March 20, 1875. On the 15th of May following, they again visited Europe, arriving home on the 9th of October, 1875.

Since his marriage, he has pursued no regular business, but has an office at 84 Broadway, New York.

He received the degree of A.M. from Harvard, in 1872.

Address : 22 West 53d Street, New York City.

JOHN HILLIS. Born in Bailieborough, County Cavan, Province of Ulster, North of Ireland, November 3, 1846.

After graduation he "cultivated a garden of geniuses, known as Westford Academy," in Middlesex County, Mass. There he "toiled for a term of fourteen weeks, and then lived in sweet retirement, in his own little village of Assabet (now the town of Maynard), during a whole year, with the exception of the Spring Term of 1869, which he spent at the Dane Law School." Dissatisfied with this life, he entered the law offices of Judges White and Richardson, at No. 5 Tremont Street, Boston, where he now practises his profession. He was admitted to the Bar, October 2, 1871, and to the United States Circuit Court, March 18, 1875. In 1871, he received the degree of A.M., in course. In March, 1871, he was elected Chairman of the School Committee, in Maynard, and re-elected for three years, in March, 1873, but resigned, in April, 1874, to devote more time to his profession.

He was appointed a Justice of the Peace, December 28, 1870. Was made a Master Mason, in Doric Lodge, Hudson, Mass., March 13, 1873; Royal Arch Mason, in Marlboro', Mass., November 21, 1873; and Knight Templar, in Trinity Commandery, Hudson, February 12, 1874.

Address : 5 Tremont Street, Boston, Mass., or, Maynard, Mass.

CHARLES FREDERICK HINCKLE. Born in Philadelphia, Penn., June 2, 1845.

He joined the class in its Sophomore year. After graduation he entered the Dane Law School, at Cambridge, where he received the degree of LL.B., at Commencement, 1870. He then went to Philadelphia, entering the law office of Lewis, Wharton, & Co., and gaining admission to the Bar, April 29, 1871. For some time he practised at 210 West Washington Square; but, at present, he is associated in partnership with Franklin Swayne, Esq., under the firm name of Hinckle & Swayne, at 733 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, where he continues the practice of his profession.

He is married, but makes no report.

Address: 733 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, Penn.

EDGAR HUIDEKOPER. Born in Meadville, Penn., March 10, 1845.

After graduation he returned to Meadville, where he has since had his residence. He has been Treasurer and Secretary of the Meadville Agricultural Works, and Assistant Treasurer of the Meadville Theological School. His business, until recently, has been that of an Oil Producer.

In November, 1873, he went abroad, travelling through Europe, Egypt, and Palestine, returning home in July, 1874. During his absence, he contributed fourteen excellent letters to a daily newspaper. At present he is in Florida, intending to return North upon the approach of summer.

He received the degree of A.M. from Harvard, in 1871.

Address: Meadville, Penn.

ARTHUR HUNNEWELL. Born in Boston, Mass., December 1, 1846.

Since graduation, has been in the banking firm of H. H. Hunnewell & Sons, Boston.

On the 1st of June, 1870, he was married to Miss Jeannie H. Boit, daughter of Edward D. and Jane P. Boit, of Boston. His children are Isabella, born May 7, 1871; Jane Boit, born May 9, 1872; and Julia Overing, born November 19, 1873.

Address: H. H. Hunnewell & Sons, Boston, Mass.

CHARLES SEDGWICK HUNT. Born in Canaan, Conn., April 7, 1842.

In July, 1868, he was employed on "outside work" for the "New York Sun;" and, in August following, did the same work for the "New York Tribune." In September, of that year, he became a regular reporter for the "Tribune;" and, from January, 1869, to February, 1870, had charge of the real estate department of that paper. From February to April, 1870, he was assistant editor of the "Jersey City Times." From May to November, 1870, he was the financial editor of the "New York Standard," when he returned to the "Tribune," for which he served as its Albany correspondent, from January to April, 1871; and, in May, 1871, he became a political editor. On the 27th of February, 1876, he became an editorial writer of the "New York Times," "chiefly on such topics as are suggested by the state of the currency, trade, and finances of the country."

He has made a special study of the principles which apply to currency, banking, debts, wages, &c., and of the history and discussion of these subjects, in England, from 1790 to the present day. He is fully sensible of his inefficiency in this department of knowledge, and of the difficulty of awakening an interest "in a science, which, like Herulaneum and Pompeii, has long been buried under heaps of ashes." Still, he pursues it as the object of his life; for, as a journalist, he may "perhaps throw an occasional spark into a receptive mind, or obstruct the path of some straggling demagogue."

He was married, on the 15th of September, 1870, to Miss Louise Hunnewell Parker, of New York.

Residence: 102 East 54th Street, New York City.

Address: The "Times" Office, New York City.

FREDERICK GUION IRELAND. Born in New York City, September 7, 1846.

He received the degree of LL.B., at the Columbia Law School, New York, May 16, 1871, and was admitted to the Bar three days later. In 1869-70, he fitted two pupils for Harvard, one of whom was put on the class crew; "a distinction for which," he says, "I can claim no credit, not having assumed charge of his physical education." From October, 1870, to February, 1871, he was in the law office of J. H. & S. Riker, 150 Nassau Street, New York. He afterwards entered the office of Austin Abbott, Esq.; and, still later, in February, 1872, the office of Richard H. Hunt, Esq., 35 Pine Street, New York, where he remained till the following September. Early in November, 1872, he went abroad, visiting France, Italy, Switzerland, and England, returning home in September, 1873. In January, 1874, he took desk room at 31 Wall Street, and continued in the practice of his profession. Since September, 1874, he has been engaged in teaching. He was at one time a regular contributor to the "Arcadian," but ceased writing for it, in January, 1875. He has also written for other publications.

Address: 124 East 25th Street, New York City.

HENRY FRANKLIN KING. Born in Washington, D. C., September 8, 1845.

After graduation he went to Washington, and was engaged as a claim and patent agent, at the same time attending the Columbian Law School, at Washington, where he received the degree of LL.B., June 8, 1870; and on the 26th of September following, he was admitted to practice in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. On the 19th of October, 1870, he removed to West Newton, Mass., where he now is. Since January, 1871, he has been connected with the Boston Branch of J. M. Bradstreet & Sons' Commercial Agency, 100 Franklin Street, Boston. He has occasionally contributed to the press, and has published a few pieces of music, in Boston.

He was married, on the 8th of September, 1869, at West Newton, to Miss Julia Florence Houghton, an adopted daughter of William P. and Julia A. Houghton, of that place. His only child, William Houghton King, was born May 8, 1872, and died May 10, 1875.

In June following, he received the degree of M.D., and also became a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society. In September, 1871, he commenced the practice of Medicine, in Lynn, Mass., where he now is, having met with success.

From July, 1874, to April, 1875, he was in Europe, dividing his time between Dublin, and London, and Leipzig. While in Dublin, he was an Interne in the Rotundo Hospital; and, in London, a student at the Hospital for Diseases of the Throat.

He is a member of the Palestine Encampment of Odd Fellows.

Address : 86 Broad Street, Lynn, Mass.

CHARLES TAYLOR LOVERING. Born in Dorchester, Mass., September 23, 1846.

After graduation he entered the Dane Law School, at Cambridge, where he received the degree of LL.B., in June, 1870. He was also a student in the office of Hon. J. G. Abbott. In September, 1871, he was admitted to the Bar ; and, in October following, formed a partnership with S. A. B. Abbott, Esq. (H. U., 1866), and is now practising his profession at 42 Court Street, Boston.

He is Sergeant-Major in the First Corps of Cadets, Boston.

He received the degree of A.M. from Harvard, in 1871.

Address : 42 Court Street, Boston.

JOHN PICKERING LYMAN. Born in Portsmouth, N. H., February 8, 1847.

Since graduation he has been in the continued employ of Lee, Higginson, & Co., Bankers and Brokers, at 44 State Street, Boston.

He received the degree of A.M. in course. "Et ea preterea nihil," he says.

Address : 44 State Street, Boston, Mass.

EX SUMNER MANSFIELD. Born in Norwich, Conn., October 25, 1847.

By the former report, it appears that " In November, 1868, he went to New Orleans. Entered the law office of M. M. Cohen, in December. In April, 1869, passed an examination before the Supreme Court of Louisiana, and was admitted to practice. Entered the Harvard Law School, in September, 1869, and remained there till July, 1870, receiving a degree. In November, returned to New Orleans, and opened an office." He afterwards removed to Boston, and was associated with Hon. Charles Allen, at 30 Court Street ; but is now practising law at 13 Pemberton Square, Boston.

He was married, at Cambridge, Mass., on the 20th of November, 1871, to Miss Maria Edgeworth Trowbridge. He has a son, Philip Mansfield, born November 8, 1873.

He received the degree of A.M. from Harvard, in 1871.

Address : 13 Pemberton Square, Boston.

CHARLES ADAMS MORRILL. Born in Haverhill, Mass., July 1, 1843.

In the autumn of 1868, he became a teacher at the St. Paul's School, in Concord, N. H.

On Ascension Day, 1871, he was ordained a Deacon, and to the Priesthood, September 20, 1874. As yet he has had no regular parish work; but has preached in various mission stations, for, perhaps, one hundred times, within the past five years. Has published nothing as yet.

On the 1st of September, 1875, he was married to Miss Ella Bradley Whittier, daughter of Albert G. and Martha A. Whittier, of Haverhill, Mass.

During all this time, he has continued in his duties at the St. Paul's School.

He received the degree of A.M. from Harvard, in 1872.

Address : St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H.

WILLIAM HUMPHREY NASH. Born in Hingham, Mass., June 11, 1846.

He joined the class in its Sophomore year.

After graduation he was engaged in business with the Hooksett Manufacturing Co., J. W. Daniels, Treasurer, in Boston, living at the same time at North Weymouth, Mass. He remained in this position till the great fire of November 9-10, 1872, when he was for several months in the insurance office of Ellison, Hollis, & Co.; and, in May, 1873, was employed as a bookkeeper, by Spaulding & Wardwell, Paper Manufacturers, with whom he remained till their dissolution, in April, 1874, when he intended to start in business for himself; and, during all this time, he made weekly trips to Concord, Mass., to officiate as organist in the Unitarian Church.

In January, 1875, he left Boston for Cleveland, Ohio, to act as Head Assistant in the Brooks School, a new institution, under the charge of John S. White (H. U., 1870). "The idea of the school," he says, "originated with Rev. Fred. Brooks, a brother of Rev. Phillips Brooks (H. U., 1855); and it was while in Boston, for the purpose of engaging a teacher, that he lost his life. The school has grown in the first year of its life from seventeen pupils to one hundred and fifty, and bids fair to make the name of Harvard strong in the West." He also officiates as organist of the First Methodist Church, in Cleveland.

Address : Cleveland, Ohio.

CHARLES DANA PALMER. Born in Cambridge, Mass., November 25, 1845.

From the time of graduation till January, 1872, he was employed by the Washington Mills, at Lawrence, Mass. In February, 1872, he formed a partnership with Mr. Thomas H. Gray (H. U., 1867), under the firm name of Gray, Palmer, & Pendergast, as manufacturers of and dealers in wool shoddy, wool-yarn waste, and wool stock; their Boston office being at 59 Broad Street, and their mills at North Chelmsford, Mass. In February, 1874, the third partner was bought out; and the business is now continued under the name of Gray, Palmer, & Co., at 49 Federal Street, Boston.

He received the degree of A.M. in course. His home is at 24 Union Park, Boston; but he is at present in Lowell.

Address : 49 Federal Street, Boston, Mass.

CHARLES HARRIS PHELPS. Born in Boston, Mass., September 14, 1845.

On the 2d of September, 1868, he entered the Law School, at Albany, N. Y., at the same time reading law under the direction of Hon. Ira Harris, of Reynolds & Harris, of that city. He was graduated in the following June, receiving the degree of LL.B., and was at once admitted to the Bar. In the same month, June, 1869, he went to New York City, entering the law offices of Porter, Lowrey, and Soren, 78 Broadway, New York, as a clerk. On the 18th of September, 1869, he went into the offices of Turner & Kirkland, Jr., 21 Nassau Street, New York, when he became their managing clerk, and was appointed a Notary Public and Commissioner for several States. Afterwards, in April, 1872, he became a partner in this firm, and continued such for about a year, when he opened his own offices, at 128 Broadway, New York, where he has continued in the active practice of his profession, since February, 1873.

In June, 1873, he went to Europe, visiting Ireland, Scotland, England, France, Italy, Switzerland, Southern Germany, Holland, and Belgium, returning to New York in October following.

In June, 1874, he again went abroad; and, spurning the ordinary course of travel, set out upon a tour of exploration through Denmark, Norway, Sweden, to St. Petersburg, thence across Russia, by the way of Moscow, to the river Volga, down which he went to the city of Astrachan, on the Caspian Sea, where he took steamer for Enzeli, in Persia. Driven from Persia by the extreme heat, he returned over the Caspian Sea to Petrofsk, in Daghestan, where he engaged a native "troika," or three-horse cart of rude construction, to be driven day and night, with scarce any intermission, through Daghestan, Georgia, and Circassia, to Poti (the Phasis of the Ancients), on the Black Sea. From Petrofsk, he rode to Vladikavkas, and thence southerly through the great Kasbec Pass of the Caucasus Mountains, "the scenery of which pales any thing in the Alps," to Tiflis, the capital of Georgia. At Tiflis, he was warned of the danger of the journey, proceeding unarmed, as he did, in a land of free-booters. But, separating the soles of his shoes, he slipped his bill of credit, with some money, between them; and, after other precautions, suggested by a collegiate experience, passed on at a full gallop to Poti, which he reached just in time for the steamer to Constantinople. This journey, from the Caspian to the Black Sea, he accomplished in six days and nights, the distance being near five hundred miles. His seat was a layer of straw; and the fatigue such that he thrice nearly fell from the vehicle. Through the entire trip he assumed the fez; and, with his light kid gloves, full beard, and sun-burned complexion, passed for a Russian army officer. His driver was by turns a Tartar, a Kalmuck, or a Kerghis. The Consul at Poti assured him it was a marvel that he escaped death. He not only lived through this, however, but twice escaped the Asiatic cholera, at Astrachan and at Constantinople. Upon this journey, as far as Poti, he delivered a lecture before the American Geographical Society, at Chickering Hall, New York, March 30, 1876; the whole being illustrated by stereopticon views.

It was after leaving Constantinople, on this trip, that, in imitation of Leander, he swam the Hellespont, on the morning of August 22, 1874. The distance across, in a straight line, is one mile. There are three currents: two from West to East and the main one from East to West, which runs at the rate of eight or nine miles an hour. The distance swam is estimated at three miles; and the time occupied was a little less than sixty minutes. He was accompanied, in a boat, by Wm. Paulson, Esq., of London, and Gowen Tchesmely Osman, a Turkish boatman, both of whom furnished Phelps with affidavits of his feat, and restored him after the exhaustion from his effort. The site chosen was where Xerxes built his bridges of boats across the Hellespont, between Sestos and Abydos, B.C. 480.

On his way home he explored Athens, securing such relics from the Acropolis, the Pnyx, &c., as he could lay hands upon, and reached home safely, in October, 1874.

"The cares of a large business, and his failing health, requiring a trip across the ocean for a portion of each summer," he once more set out in pursuit of adventure, on the 1st of July, 1875. Proceeding to Bayonne, in France, he went on foot, with a peasant for a guide, through the Smuggler's Pass, in the Pyrenees, to Tolosa, the capital of the Carlist insurgents; thence to Zunaraga, where he obtained a pass from the Carlist Minister of War to go anywhere within his lines. He speedily "went to the front," was at Estella and Villa Real, and witnessed an engagement at Vitoria. At Lestaola, in passing between the lines of the Carlists and Alfonzists, he was fired at by the latter; but, getting on the proper side of his mule, he escaped. Crossing into France, he was "at once arrested as a Carlist general," and locked up three times in one day; but escaped through his address, his motto being "Veritas sine timore." He then went to Biaritz, in France, crossed the Bay of Biscay to Santander, in Spain, and was soon in Madrid, under the Alfonzists ; thence he scoured Southern Spain ; after which he crossed into Africa, passing through Morocco and Algiers, when he returned by the way of Marseilles, Paris, and Liverpool, arriving in New York in September, 1875. His failing health will lead him this summer either to Iceland, by the way of Scotland, or to the scene of war in Herzegovina ; though he may possibly attempt the trip up the Orinoco and Amazon, thence over the Andes, and so on.

In 1872, he received the degree of A.M. from Harvard.

He is a member of the Union Club, New York ; of the Harvard Club ; the Holland Lodge, No. 8 ; the American Jockey Club ; the Bar Association ; the Metropolitan Museum ; the American Natural History Society ; is a Fellow of the American Geographical Society, of New York ; of the Clarence Club, of London ; of various political and religious organizations ; and, finally, on the 20th of March, 1876, he was initiated into the celebrated Order of Tammany, of New York City, which consists of but four hundred members. But he still clings to the Young Men's Christian Association Building, 52 East 23d Street, where, ensconced in his sumptuous quarters in its very dome, after the daily fatigue of an exacting profession, he dines off the rarest of Sèvres, bearing the insignia of Louis Philippe or Napoléon l'Empereur, enjoys his well-selected library of a thousand volumes, reclines upon his London sofa, and, at last, sinks to rest on a bed of silk and gilt imported from the Tuileries.

Address : 128 Broadway, New York City.

OTIS LIVINGSTON PRESCOTT. Born in Calais, Me., October 5, 1846.

After graduation he went to Washington, D. C., and became a clerk in the Treasury Department. At the same time he studied law in the Columbian Law School, in Washington, where he was graduated in June, 1870, and was admitted to the Bar of the District of Columbia, in September following. He is at present no longer in the Government employ, but continues practice as a member of the Bar. Whether he will remain in Washington or "go West," has not been fully de-terminated. He has taken great interest in boating while at Washington.

Address : 520 Thirteenth Street, Washington, D. C.

*SAMUEL SOMES PRESTON. Born in Boston, Mass., October 7, 1846. Died at Santa Barbara, Cal., January 31, 1872, at the age of twenty-five.

He was the son of Joshua P. and Sarah (Somes) Preston, of Boston. His grandfather, on his paternal side, was Joshua Preston, of Boston ; and his maternal grandfather was Capt. Samuel Somes, of Gloucester, Mass., for whom he was named. His father is of the firm of Preston & Merrill, Manufacturing Chemists, 77 State Street, Boston.

He was fitted for college at the Boston Latin School, under the tuition of the late Dr. Gardner. While there he received a Franklin Medal ; and, during his Junior year in college, he received a Boylston Prize for elocution. He was a member of the "Institute of 1770," and of the "Hasty Pudding Club," at Harvard. During the Freshman year, he roomed in 19 Stoughton Hall ; Sophomore year, in 11 Massachusetts Hall ; Junior year, in 12 Stoughton ; Senior year, in 6 Holworthy ; and, throughout the course, his chum was Charles D. Palmer.

After graduation he was engaged in business with the firm of Preston & Merrill, in Boston, till the autumn of 1870, when, owing to trouble in his lungs, he was obliged to leave Boston for Nassau, in the Bahamas, arriving there on the 3d of November, where he remained till the 13th of February, 1871, when he went to Havana, Cuba, and spent six weeks. By degrees, on the approach of warmer weather, he returned to the North, where he arrived in June, 1871. But, before this, he had for several weeks lost the use of his voice. That summer was passed in Ashby, Middlesex County, Mass. ; and, upon the return of winter, he went with his father's family to California, sojourning through that State till he reached Santa Barbara, where, after these vain attempts to recover from consumption, which had preyed upon him for two years, he died, though the immediate cause of his death appears to have been disease of the heart. His remains were finally interred in the family lot at Forest Hills Cemetery, Boston.

JOHN PICKERING PUTNAM. Born in Boston, Mass., April 3, 1847.

On the 21st of January, 1869, he became connected with the commission house of Perry, Wendell, & Fay, Federal Street, Boston, as a clerk, where he remained till November 1, 1869. On the 11th of that month, he sailed for Europe, ostensibly for pleasure, but, in reality, as it proved, to study Architecture; for, directly upon his arrival in England, he set out for Paris, where he applied for admission to the École Impériale des Beaux-Arts. The examinations were held on the 1st of April following, by which time he had so far mastered the language and fitted himself, as to pass the examinations with success. His studies were interrupted by the war; and, leaving Paris for Berlin, he was twice arrested as a Prussian spy, while sketching in the streets.

On the 7th of November, 1870, he entered the Royal Academy of Architecture, in Berlin, and there continued his studies till March, 1872. He witnessed the triumphal entry of the Emperor of Germany and his army, at Berlin, June 16, 1871; during his travels in the vacations, was present, in 1871, at the decennial Oberamergau Plays; and, in 1872, was in imminent danger under Vesuvius at the time of an eruption.

Returning to Boston, in September, 1872, he at once opened an architect's office at No. 4 Pemberton Square, where he has ever since continued in the active practice of his profession. At first alone, he was afterwards associated with Mr. George T. Tilden; but at present is not in partnership.

While in Germany, he witnessed the introduction of the Metric System; and, since his return to America, has been among the foremost in his efforts to secure the adoption of that System in the United States. In February, 1874, he published a circular, addressed to the architects, engineers, builders, and others interested in the subject of weights and measures, to induce their active co-operation in forwarding the practical introduction of the Metric System in this country. This circular, indorsed by influential men throughout the land, bound the signers to use the Metric System in their professional transactions, after July 4, 1876, and bears the signatures of majorities of leading architects, engineers, and builders of the chief cities of the United States. Soon after, in 1874, he published his work, entitled "The International or Metric System of Weights and Measures," for school and general use, and discussed the matter in the daily press. On the 17th of March, 1876, he lectured on German Architecture, before the Mechanics' Association, of Worcester, Mass.

In February, 1874, he was elected a member of the American Metrological Society; and he is also a member of the Portfolio Club, in Boston.

Residence: 78 Marlboro' Street, Boston.

Address: 4 Pemberton Square, Boston, Mass.

MILTON REED. Born in Haverhill, Mass., October 1, 1848.

Immediately after graduation he went to Fall River, Mass., and assumed the "responsible and arduous position" of editor of the "Fall River Daily Evening News," a flourishing paper. He was thus occupied for three years; and so pleasantly withal, that he "saw the silver lining of the cloud with very few eclipses." In the autumn of 1870, the "dear people" elected him a school committee man of Fall River for a term of three years. In the summer of 1871, he threw his whole energy into the study of the law, entering the Dane Law School, at Cambridge, and the office of Hon. Edmund H. Bennett, in Taunton, Mass. He was admitted to the Bar in January, 1873. Since then, he has practised his profession, at Fall River, and is believed to be the first member of the class who has been elevated to the Bench, having held the offices of Special Justice of the Second District Court of Bristol County, and been Trial Justice of Juvenile Offenders, in Fall River.

He received the degree of A.M. in 1872; and is a member of the Mount Hope Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons, of Fall River.

Address: Fall River, Mass.

WILLIAM THOMAS REID. Born near Jacksonville, Ill., November 8, 1843.

After graduation he became Master of the Newport, R. I., High School, retaining the position till November 26, 1870, when he was appointed Head-master's Assistant, at the Boston Latin School, assuming his duties there December 19, 1870. In April, 1872, he was appointed Superintendent of Schools, in Brookline, Mass., where he remained for three years and a half in active duty, publishing, in the town reports, a full and exhaustive review of each year's labor, and the requirements of his department. In the autumn of 1875, he went to San Francisco, Cal., via Isthmus of Panama, and there became Head Master of the Boys' High School. He is a member of the Harvard Club, in San Francisco. Received the degree of A.M. in 1872.

He was married, on the 16th of August, 1870, at Jacksonville, Ill., to Miss Julia Reed, daughter of Maro McLean Reed, M.D. and Elizabeth Lathrop Reed, of that place. He has a daughter, Julia Reid, born August 10, 1871.

Address: Head Master, Boys' High School, San Francisco, Cal.

WILLIAM WHITLOCK RICHARDS. Born in Brooklyn, N. Y., December 17, 1846.

In November, 1868, he entered the office of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, 144 Broadway, New York, as a "computer." He rapidly rose. His success, "considered as such," was so great that he stepped with ease into the higher walks of mathematics, wiped off the two conditions to his credit, at Cambridge, received the degree of A.M. from his Alma Mater, in 1872, and was finally turned over to the Medical Department of the Company, though he appears to "have been uniformly well, reasonably successful, and comparatively happy." In the course of business, he has several times made the journey between New York and Brooklyn, where he resides.

Address: Mutual Life Ins. Co., 144 Broadway, New York City.

EDWIN LAWRENCE SARGENT. Born at Lynn, Mass., May 26, 1843.

During the first year after graduation he was a teacher in the Somerset English and Classical School, Boston, under Mr. Wm. N. Eayrs, as Principal. He then became the Classical Teacher in the Lynn, Mass., High School, where he has since remained.

He was married, January 19, 1871, in Lynn, to Miss Lizzie Ellen Lee, daughter of Nehemiah and Elizabeth Pamela Lee, of that city. He has one child, Lizzie D. Sargent, born October 15, 1871.

He received the degree of A.M. from Harvard, in 1872.

Address: 59 Chestnut Street, Lynn, Mass.

JOSIAH LAFAYETTE SEWARD. Born in Sullivan, N. H., April 17, 1845.

During the first year after graduation he had charge of a school, at Frankford, near White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. The next year he was employed as a private tutor, in Boston; and, during the years 1870-71, was at the head of the Conant Free Academy, Jaffrey, N. H. A circular of that Academy affirms that "Mr. Seward, the teacher, is an accurate scholar, apt to teach, and has won to himself a good reputation in his efforts as a preceptor." In the autumn of 1871, he entered the Harvard Divinity School, and was graduated in June, 1874, receiving the degree of B.D. During a portion of this time, he was an instructor in Greek for the Theological School. He had received a call from the St. Paul's Church, in Springfield, Mass., but was ordained over the Unitarian Church, in Lowell, Mass., December 31, 1874, where he still remains as its pastor. He received the degree of A.M. from Harvard, in 1871.

He is a Freemason; and, while at Jaffrey, N. H., he became a member of the Social Friends' Lodge, Cheshire Royal Arch Chapter, and Hugh de Payens Commandery of Knights Templar, all of the neighboring town of Keene; and, in the last of these societies, he officiated as Prelate. He is unmarried.

Address: Merrimack House, Lowell, Mass.

FREDERICK CHEEVER SHATTUCK. Born in Boston, Mass., November 1, 1847.

Immediately after graduation he entered the Harvard Medical School, receiving the degree of M.D., in June, 1873, having spent the previous year as Medical Interne in the Massachusetts General Hospital, and having, meanwhile, spent fifteen months in Europe, and three or four at Nassau, in the Bahamas. He then went abroad again, and continued the study of his profession in Vienna, Berlin, Strasbourg, Paris, Lyons, and London. In 1872, he received the degree of A.M. from Harvard.

Since September, 1875, he has been practising medicine, in Boston; and, on the 1st of October, 1875, was appointed District Physician to the Boston Dispensary. He is a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, Boston.

Address: 6 Newbury Street, Boston, Mass.

WILLIAM COWPER SIMMONS. Born in Wareham, Mass., September 2, 1841.

It seems that he became Sub-Master of the Public Latin School, Boston, in September, 1868, and there remained till the autumn of 1870, when he was appointed a Proctor, at Harvard, occupying himself while there with general reading mostly. During the years 1871-72-73, he was a teacher of private pupils, at Newport, R. I. In September, 1873, he went to Burlington, Vt., to act as Professor, pro tem., of Greek in "the Universitas Viridi montana," as he styles it, commonly known as the University of Vermont. In July, 1874, he was regularly appointed Professor; and he proposes to continue in his present occupation.

He was married, on the 29th of December, 1868, at Walpole, Mass., to Miss Rebecca Breck, daughter of Elias and Juliette Breck, of Franklin, Mass. His children are Charles Simmons, who died at Newport, R. I.; Margaret Breck Simmons, born September 24, 1873; Eliza Perrigo Simmons, born August 19, 1874; and Henry Garrett Simmons, born December 2, 1875.

Address: Burlington, Vt.

EDWARD EVERETT SPRAGUE. Born in Albany, N. Y., January 3, 1848.

In September, 1868, he entered the Albany Law School; and, in May, 1869, was admitted to the Bar. During the summer of 1869, he continued his studies, in the office of Calvin Frost, Esq., at Peekskill, N. Y.; and, in March, 1870, opened an office in Yonkers, N. Y., where the experiment was continued for six months, when he completed his advance down the Hudson by entering the offices of Jordan, Hinsdale, & Mellen, at 115 Broadway, New York City. There he remained, as managing clerk, till November 1, 1871, when the firm dissolved, and he formed a partnership with Mr. E. B. Hinsdale, of the old firm, under the name of Hinsdale & Sprague, and is now in successful practice.

He was married, November 4, 1873, at Flushing, L. I., to Miss Hannah N. Hoover, daughter of Joseph B. Hoover, of Flushing.

Address: Hinsdale & Sprague, 115 Broadway, New York City.

ISAAC HOMER SWEETSER. Born in Charlestown, Mass., September 3, 1846.

After graduation he entered the Dane Law School, at Cambridge, receiving the degree of LL.B., at Commencement, 1870.

In September, 1870, he entered the law office of Bryant & Goodwin, 69 Sears Building, Boston. He was admitted to practice in the State courts, September 19, 1871, and in the United States courts, October 27, 1871. Received the degree of A.M., at Commencement, 1872, and was commissioned a Justice of the Peace, January 26, 1872. On the 1st of January, 1876, he formed a partnership with John D. Bryant, Esq., with whom he now continues the practice of his profession.

Address: 69 Sears Building, Boston, Mass.

WILLIAM LANE SWIFT. Born in Washington, N. Y., September 17, 1846.

He joined the class in its Junior year.

Ever since graduation he has been engaged in manufacturing: running a planing mill, and sash, blind, and door factory, in connection with the firm of Swift Brothers, at Millbrook, Dutchess County, N. Y. In 1869, he was a teacher for three months in a boarding-school, at Norwalk, Conn.; and, during the winter of 1870-71, taught in a public school. In the spring of 1872, he again taught, "by way of variety," at Oak Grove Seminary, Vassalboro', Me. He received the degree of A.M. in 1871. As an office-holder, he reports that he is "Inside Sentinel of Division No. 43, Sons of Temperance ;” and, as a traveller, that his only foreign trip was a journey of two hours through New Jersey, in 1873.

He was married, on the 25th of August, 1873, in Millbrook, N. Y., to Henrietta Swift, daughter of Isaac and Lydia (Almy) Swift, all of Millbrook.

Address : Millbrook, Dutchess County, N. Y.

HENRY PEARL TALMADGE. Born in Troy, N. Y., March 10, 1847.

He joined the class in its Sophomore year.

After graduation he entered his father's banking-house, at 39 Pine Street, New York City. On the 1st of March, 1872, he was admitted into partnership with his father, and has since continued as a banker, under the firm name of Henry Talmadge & Co.

In 1870, he made a trip to California, being absent several months. He received the degree of A.M. in 1871.

He was married, on the 18th of April, 1872, in Brooklyn, to Miss Lucy D. White, daughter of the late H. L. White, formerly of Yonkers, N. Y. His only child, Lulu Talmadge, was born September 22, 1873.

Present residence, 538 Madison Avenue, New York.

Address : 39 Pine Street, New York City.

* EDWARD EVERETT THAYER. Born in Cambridge, Mass., January 14, 1846. Died in Cambridge, at his father's house, June 11, 1872, at the age of twenty-six.

He was the youngest son of James H. and Martha (Trow) Thayer, of Cambridge, Mass. His ancestors on his father's side may be traced back to Thomas Thayer, who came to New England at an early date of its settlement, and who died in Braintree, Mass., April 2, 1665, where the Thayers have lived for many generations, and held offices of trust and importance.

He was educated at the public schools, in Cambridge, having the benefit of the instruction of Daniel Mansfield, Principal of the Grammar School, and of Lyman Williston and William J. Rolfe, in the High School. In the latter school, he attained the highest percentage in Latin, namely, 98 $\frac{1}{5}$, and took a prize therefor ; and, at the public exhibition, on graduation, held at the Cambridge City Hall, he delivered the Salutatory, in Latin. In his Sophomore year at Harvard, he received, as a Detur, Milton's "Paradise Lost ;" and, at the Junior exhibition, in May, 1867, he had assigned to him a part in a Latin dialogue, which was not delivered, however, owing to the sickness of another.

After graduation he entered the Harvard Medical School, and there continued for three years or more, though he does not appear to have taken a degree. The only other information received of him is to be found in a tract, furnished by his father, entitled, "A Noble Young Christian" (by Mrs. W. A. Benton, of Mt. Lebanon, Syria), wherein it appears that he had been sick for three weeks when Mrs. Benton (who had come "all the way from Mt. Lebanon, from her beloved work among the Maronites and Druses") offered her services, and records such scenes as the following :—

"I hope, Eddie, you are a Christian, and have the comforts of Jesus' love to sustain you in this suffering."

"No ; I wish I was."

"Look to Jesus, now. He is more than ready to receive you. He died for you. He wants you to give your heart to him."

"Oh ! if I didn't know it all. It is so mean to look to Christ when one is obliged to. I've been so sceptical ; I've tried hard to be a sceptic."

"Dear Eddie, give that all up. Scepticism will never sustain you on a sick and dying bed."

"Prayer was almost constantly offered up for him in the Baptist Church, and also in the prayer-meetings of the Young Men's Christian Association, in Boston."

"How long shall I live ?"

"Probably but a few days. Now, dear Eddie, you must prepare to die. You must give yourself to Jesus."

"This was Thursday, June 6." . . .

"Friday afternoon he had a most fearful view of his sins." . . .

"On Saturday afternoon, a full tide of joy and love flowed over his soul. He was filled with exceeding great joy, which continued all night. He saw the brightness of the heavenly glory, the great white throne, the blessed Saviour, the saints, the angels, the mansions. At one time he raised his dying hand, and, pointing upward, exclaimed, "See ! see ! twenty-five thousand crowns and thousands of thousands !" . . . Meanwhile, he would beat time and sometimes make motions with his hands, as if playing the piano or flute." . . .

“ About noon on the last Sabbath, he seemed to have a conflict with the very devil himself; his friends could hardly keep him on the bed.”

Mrs. Benton approached; and, “ putting her face close to his, began to pray and to say, ‘ Go away, Satan; you can’t have Eddie; he belongs to Christ; he is a lamb of the flock; he is washed in the blood;’ and much more to the same effect.”

Finally, “ he was singing, not an hour before he breathed his last,” —

“ Jesus, lover of my soul,
Let me to thy bosom fly.”

And we are assured that he died a peaceful death.

At a meeting of the class, held on Commencement Day, June 26, 1872, the following resolutions were adopted: —

“ Whereas, by a dispensation of Divine Providence, EDWARD EVERETT THAYER, our classmate, has been removed from our number,

“ Resolved, That we take this means of testifying our respect for the high character, pure life, and good abilities of our deceased classmate, and tendering our sympathies to his relatives and friends in this the hour of their affliction, when they are deprived of one whose unostentatious virtues made him a beloved companion.

“ Resolved, That, as a further mark of respect, these resolutions be published in the ‘ Boston Daily Advertiser.’ ”

DEXTER TIFFANY. Born in St. Louis, Mo., August 28, 1846.

After graduation he went to St. Louis, commenced reading law, and was admitted to the Bar, in April, 1869. He now practises his profession at 507 Chestnut Street, St. Louis. His residence is at 1512 Washington Avenue.

He was married, on the 29th of March, 1870, to Miss Annie Hathaway Shepley, daughter of Hon. George F. Shepley, of Portland, Me. His only child, Dexter Tiffany, Jr., was born June 2, 1873.

He travelled in Europe during the years 1870–71; and he is a member of the University Club, in St. Louis.

Address: 1512 Washington Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

JOHN WILSON TILTON. Born in Haverhill, Mass., August 20, 1844.

From July to November, 1868, he was a book-keeper for his brother, A. J. Tilton, of Haverhill. November 1st, 1868, he formed a partnership with Mr. W. S. Chase, under the firm name of Chase & Tilton, as wholesale shoe manufacturers, 176 Merrimack Street, Haverhill. In December, 1871, he was elected a Common-Council man of Haverhill, and was re-elected, December, 1872. In January, 1876, he was elected by the Aldermen and School Committee to fill a vacancy on the School Committee, caused by the death of Dr. M. C. Towle (H. U., 1865). He joined the Odd-Fellows in June, 1873, and in December following, the Freemasons.

His partnership with Mr. Chase was dissolved November 1, 1874, and he has since continued in the same business by himself, meeting with success.

He was married on the 27th of October, 1869, in Boston, to Mary Ellen, elder daughter of James Scott and Ellen (Hutton) Hancock, of Boston. His children are John Hancock Tilton, born September 16, 1870; Charles Lowell Tilton, born January 19, 1872; and Louise Hancock Tilton, born March 15, 1875.

Address: Haverhill, Mass.

JOHN TODHUNTER. Born in Philadelphia, Penn., August 25, 1846.

After graduation he went to Baltimore, Md., where he commenced reading law in the office of Bernard Carter, Esq. There he remained for six months, when he entered the Dane Law School, at Cambridge, receiving the degree of LL.B. at Commencement, 1870. He was then admitted to the Bar in Boston, but soon after went to Kansas City, Missouri. An experience of two months in that city was sufficient, and he sought relief at Otterville, Cooper County, Mo., "a lively little place of about 2,500 inhabitants." Here he was busily engaged with investments and his profession, joining the Otterville Institute (Debating Society), and becoming a constant attendant at the Methodist prayer-meetings. Having reaped the full benefit of Otterville, tried Chicago, where he lost his law library in the great fire, and essayed Duluth, he finally settled in the metropolis of New York, where in December, 1871, he formed a partnership with his classmate, A. H. Ammidown, which was continued till September 11, 1875. At present he is practising alone at 115 Broadway, N. Y.

He was married June , 1870, and has two children, Helen Todhunter, born May , 1871, and William Todhunter, born November , 1874.

In May, 1872, he went abroad, seeking a cure for his lameness. He visited London, Paris, Turin, Milan, and Venice, and while in Italy was operated upon by a celebrated native female surgeon, who gave him great relief; when he returned through Strasbourg, Paris, and Southampton to New York, arriving home in August, 1872.

Address: 115 Broadway, New York City.

LEVERETT SALTONSTALL TUCKERMAN. Born in Washington, D. C., April 19, 1848.

From the time of graduation till the 6th of April, 1869, he vainly endeavored to enter into business, living at home in Salem, Mass. He then entered the law office of Perry & Endicott at Salem, as a student; and in February, 1870, went to the Dane Law School, at Cambridge, where he remained till June, 1871, receiving the degrees of A.M. and LL.B. After a short vacation he passed about a year in two Boston law offices, as a student, when he returned to Salem, was admitted to the Bar, October, 1872, and formed a connection with Messrs. Perry & Endicott, which lasted till the elevation of Mr. Endicott to the Supreme Court of Massachusetts, March 5, 1873. On the 1st of April, 1873, he formed a partnership with Mr. Perry, and is now practising his profession at 256½ Essex Street, Salem, under the firm name of Perry & Tuckerman.

Address: Salem, Mass.

THOMAS ELLINWOOD UPHAM. Born in Boston, Mass., March 4, 1847.

Immediately after Commencement he went abroad, and spent two years in travel and in study at the German Universities. Returning to Boston, he commenced reading law; but, abandoning this, he again went abroad for his health, visiting England, France, Spain, Portugal, Tangiers in Africa, Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Finland, Russia, Hungary, Germany, Turkey, Greece, Syria, Palestine, Egypt, up the Nile to Nubia, returning to Cairo and Alexandria, then to Malta, Sicily, and Italy, when he returned home in the summer of 1873. His health improving, he went to Edinburgh, Scotland, in September, 1873, to commence the study of anatomy, returning to America in the following month of June. In September, 1874, he resumed his studies at Edinburgh, returning home in June following, when he again left in September, 1875, for Edinburgh, but from want of health returned home in December following, and is now an invalid at his father's house in Cambridge.

Address : Care Thomas Upham, Esq., Cambridge, Mass.

MOSES JONES WENTWORTH. Born in Sandwich, New Hampshire, May 9, 1848.

Immediately after graduation he went to Chicago, Illinois, and in 1871 was graduated from the Law Department of the Chicago University, receiving the degree of LL.B. He also received the degree of A.M. from Harvard, in 1872.

His College books and papers, and nearly every memento of his College life, were burned in the great Chicago fire of 1871.

On the 3d of November, 1874, he was elected, by the First District of Illinois, a member of the House of Representatives in the Legislature of that State, for two years. In the Legislature he was a member of the Judiciary Committee, of the Committee on Libraries, of the Militia Committee, and was Chairman of the Committee upon Enrolled and Engrossed Bills. He was elected by a party composed of all who were adverse to the Republican party, and known in 1874, throughout Illinois, as the opposition party, and in the Legislative Manual his politics are defined by the word "opposition."

He continues the practice of his profession in Chicago, and has been appointed a Notary Public.

Address : Room 8, No. 45 La Salle Street, Chicago, Illinois.

PAUL WENTWORTH. Born in Sandwich, New Hampshire, October 28, 1846.

He returned to Sandwich, immediately after graduation, and there remained, reading law and aiding his father on his farm and in his store. On the 26th of September, 1870, he went to Concord, N. H., and applied himself exclusively to the law in the office of Eastman, Page, & Albin. He was appointed Justice of the Peace, July 12, 1871; and was admitted to the Bar in June, 1872. He then returned to Sandwich, where he devoted himself in part to the practice of the law and in part to farming. In April, 1874, he was appointed "Superintending School Committee," a position which he has held for two years; and on the 9th of April, 1875, he was confirmed as Solicitor of Carroll County, N. H., having been previously nominated to that office by the Governor and Council of the State.

He was married at Concord, N. H., on the 18th of November, 1872, to Miss Ellen T. Dunklee, daughter of Jacob C. and Sarah T. Dunklee, of Concord. He has one child, Louise C. Wentworth, born August 31, 1873.

Address: Sandwich, N. H.

JESSE FRANKLIN WHEELER. Born in Watertown, Mass., July 29, 1845.

From July 1, 1868, to January 1, 1869, he was with the firm of Burdett, Paris, & Co., Troy, N. Y. He then returned to Boston, and commenced reading law in the office of Hon. William A. Richardson. From July 1, 1869, to January 1, 1870, he was in the law office of Chandler, Shattuck, & Thayer, 27 Court Street, Boston, when he entered the Dane Law School, at Cambridge, receiving the degree of LL.B. in 1871. He was admitted to the Bar and began practice in August, 1871, opening an office at No. 12 School Street, Boston, where he remained for a year and a half, when he removed to the Rialto Building, on Devonshire Street, but he is now at No. 7 Court Square.

In March, 1875, he was appointed a Trial Justice for Middlesex County, Mass., and he is also a Notary Public.

In 1871, he received the degree of A.M. from Harvard.

Address: 7 Court Square, Boston, Mass.

CHANNING WOOD WHITMAN. Born in Lancaster, Ohio, August 24, 1846.

At the time of graduation he was confined to his college room with water on the knee. His father then conveyed him to Deerfield, Mass., and, in the autumn of 1868, he arrived home in Cincinnati. His knee improving, he went with his brother Henry, in November following, to open a branch office in St. Paul, Minn., for a Connecticut Life Insurance Company. But his knee grew worse, and he was forced to return, in the spring of 1869, to Cincinnati, where he placed himself under medical treatment, and at the same time studied law, graduating with the degree of LL.B. from the Cincinnati Law School, in the spring of 1870. In March of that year, by the advice of surgeons, he visited Europe for relief, and was so far cured, in London, as to permit of a five weeks' Continental journey. This, however, aggravated his complaint; and he consulted the physicians at Berlin. Returning to London, he kept at rest, and by degrees recovered the use of his knee, till at last, on his second wedding trip, made in September, 1875, he indulged in mountaineering in Switzerland, even scaling the Matterhorn, without a guide, to the height of over 10,000 feet, and ascending a number of minor summits of about that altitude. The Matterhorn "is never scaled without guides, generally three in number, and a night spent out on it."

His residence during the past five years has been at Huddersfield, Yorkshire, England, where he is the Consular Representative of the United States, his appointment bearing date of June 24, 1870.

In 1874, he visited the United States, spending some time in New England, in Washington, and the West.

He was married at the English Presbyterian Church, Lydgate, near Huddersfield, England, on the 19th of , 1871, to Mary Wilson Eals, oldest daughter of Doctor George and Lucretia Wilson Eals, of Lithopolis, Ohio. His only child is Henry G. Whitman, born February 18, 1872. On that day his wife died, at Brockhouse, near Huddersfield, and is buried at Lydgate Chapel.

He was married again on the 18th of September, 1875, to Mary, daughter of William P. England, residing in Huddersfield.

In 1872 he received the degree of A.M. from Harvard.

Address: Huddersfield, Yorkshire County, England.

* HENRY MEDILL WHITMAN. Born in Lancaster, Ohio, June 24, 1845. Died at Cincinnati, Ohio, August 16, 1869, at the age of twenty-four.

He was the eldest son of Henry Cummings and Elizabeth (King) Whitman. His ancestry on his father's side is traced back to John Whiteman of Norfolk County, England, who was born in 1602, and who settled at Weymouth, Mass., in 1635, where he was appointed Ensign by Governor Winthrop in 1645. On his mother's side the genealogy is traced to Peter Livermore of Thurloe, Suffolk County, England, whose fifth child, John, born in 1606, came to Watertown, Mass., in 1634, and married Grace Alden.

He was educated partly at his home in Lancaster, Ohio, and partly in private schools till twelve years of age. He then entered a Grammar-school; and at the end of a year a High-school, where he remained for two years; when he had a private teacher, Mr. C. F. Fish, and in March, 1862, was sent to his grandfather's in Deerfield, Mass. In Deerfield he recited privately to the principal of the Deerfield Academy, Mr. N. M. Howard, with a view to entering Phillips Exeter Academy, in which he was successful, joining the middle class at Exeter in August, 1862, G. L. Soule, LL.D., being the principal.

In 1863, while at home on a vacation, he received from Secretary Stanton an appointment to a Cadetship at West Point, but was soon after taken sick with intermittent fever, and resigned. Upon his recovery, he rejoined his class at Exeter, graduating in 1864, and entering Harvard the same year. At Harvard, in his Freshman and Sophomore years, he roomed at No. 20 Gray's Hall, and in the Junior and Senior years at No. 37 Gray's Hall. His chum during the last three years was John Todhunter. He was a member of the "Institute of 1770," and a librarian of the "Hasty Pudding Club." He rowed in the Harvard regatta on Charles River, June 8, 1867, in the "Junior Second Crew," and in the same crew at Arlington, Mass., in the regatta of June 17, 1867, being in the winning crew in both races. He was also our Class Supper Chronicler.

After graduation he returned to his home in Cincinnati, and in November, 1868, was appointed, with his brother Channing, a general agent of a Connecticut Life Insurance Co., for the State of Minnesota. He accordingly opened an office at St. Paul, Minn., where he remained till the following spring, when he abandoned the business, on account of Channing's knee complaint, and returned to Cincinnati to commence the study of the Law.

In July following, he was seized with an attack of brain fever, and became delirious. The disease afflicted him for nearly a month, when on the 16th of August, 1869, he died. His remains are buried in Spring Grove Cemetery, near Cincinnati.

MOSES WILLIAMS, JR. Born in Jamaica Plain, Mass., December 4, 1846.

After graduation he commenced the study of the law, at first in the office of Sohler & Welch, 9 Tremont Street, Boston, and afterwards in the office of Hon. William A. Richardson and Hon. George White. On the 23d of December, 1868, he was admitted to the Bar, upon examination, and at once commenced the practice of his profession, opening an office at No. 5 Tremont Street, Boston. There he continued until late in the autumn of 1875, when he removed to offices at No. 18 Post Office Square, where he now is. During this time he has been closely confined to his professional and legislative duties, his only journeys being a trip to Kentucky in January, 1871; and, in the summer of 1873, to Niagara, the St. Lawrence, Montreal, and Lake George.

At the annual fall election in 1873, he was elected a member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, from the town of Brookline, where he resides; and from custom he was sent a second year, in 1874, to represent that town. In 1875, he was again elected to the House, in opposition to a combination between the Democrats and Annexationists. For three years he has been a member of the Railroad Committee of the House, and during the present session has been the Chairman of that Committee. He was Chairman of the Committee on the Reception of President Grant on the Lexington and Concord Centennial, 1875; and also Chairman of the Committee on the Resumption of Specie Payments, 1875.

He was married on the 10th of September, 1868, at Brookline, to Miss Martha C. Fininley, of England. His children are Moses Williams, 3d, born June 29, 1869; Mary Eleanor Williams, born October 26, 1870; Hugh Williams, born June 29, 1872; and Beatrice Williams, born January 8, 1874. He is a member of the Union Club, Boston.

Residence in Brookline, Mass.

Address: 18 Post Office Square, Boston, Mass.

* JAMES BANISTER WINN. Born in Glasgow, Ky., May, 3, 1836. Died at Urania College, Glasgow, November 20, 1872, at the age of thirty-six.

He was descended from John Winn, a Virginia farmer, whose son Thomas Winn was one of the early settlers of Kentucky. John Ellis Winn, a son of Thomas, was the father of the deceased, and was a farmer near Glasgow, Ky., till his death in November, 1854.

His mother was a daughter of Clement Montague, and died in July, 1846.

Till the death of his father he lived on the farm, receiving a common-school education. In 1857, he entered Urania College in Glasgow, Ky., where he completed the course in three years, ending in June, 1860. At Urania he was a member of a society known as "The Literary Fraternity," which held weekly meetings, and was devoted to oratorical and literary efforts. During the last term, he was the President of this Society. In the academical years 1860-61, he took charge of the Marrowbone Seminary, in Cumberland County, Ky.

When the civil war broke out, he enlisted in the Confederate army, October, 1861, being enrolled in Company D, 6th Regiment, Kentucky Volunteers, Infantry, under Brigadier John C. Breckenridge. His Brigade joined General Albert S. Johnston, at Bowling Green, Ky., and during the four ensuing years his course was as follows: "From Bowling Green to Shiloh (April, 1862), thence to Vicksburg (June and July, 1862), thence to Baton Rouge, La. (August, 1862), thence to Murfreesboro' (December, 1862), to Jackson, Miss. (June, 1863), to Chicamauga (September, 1863), to Chattanooga (October, 1863), to Dalton, Ga. (December, 1863), where he encamped through the winter. In the spring of 1864, opened that protracted campaign which continued till the close of the war, through Georgia, South Carolina, and North Carolina. The Kentucky Brigade did not go with Gen. Hood into Tennessee, but with Gen. Joseph E. Johnston, in the continuation of the campaign through the three States just mentioned. In April, 1865, the two armies were confronting each other near Greensboro', N. C., where hostilities finally ceased." On being paroled, he returned to Glasgow.

In August, 1866, the trustees offered him the charge of Urania College, which he accepted for one year, during which time "The Literary Fraternity" was reorganized and he chosen its president.

He entered the Class of '68 at Harvard, in its Senior year, in September, 1867.

After graduation he returned at once to Glasgow, where he leased for the term of fifteen years the Urania College Buildings, becoming President of the Institution. There he continued till November, 20, 1872, when he passed away, after a lingering illness of six months. His remains were buried in the family cemetery, near Glasgow, by the Masonic Fraternity, of which he was a member.

He received the degree of A.M. from Harvard in 1872.

WALTER WOOD. Born in Philadelphia, Penn., December 6, 1849.

He joined the class in its Senior year.

After graduation he went to Philadelphia, where he worked for several weeks in the foundry of the firm of R. D. Wood & Co., 400 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, manufacturers of cast-iron water and gas pipes, &c. During the autumn of 1870 he had charge of the branch house in New York. On becoming of age, he became connected with the above firm, with which he still continues. He has also been connected with a dry-goods Commission House, and is a Director in the Millville, N. J., Manufacturing Company.

In 1871-72, he went abroad, spending about four months, principally in Italy and England; and, in the winter of 1873-74, he made a trip to St. Thomas and to Cuba. His business excursions have extended "all over the United States and Canada."

Address: 400 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Penn.

ALBERT LEE. Born in Kirkland, N. Y., February 3, 1841.

He has suffered from sickness since leaving college, and "therefore," he says, "only just fairly beginning my ministerial work." He took a fourth and extra year of study at the Yale Theological Seminary, in 1874-75, and is now pleasantly situated as Pastor of the Congregational Church, at East Watertown, Jefferson County, N. Y.

Address : East Watertown, Jefferson County, N. Y.

* CHARLES LINDLEY. Born in Meigs County, Ohio, September 5, 1844. Died, in New Orleans, January 2, 1867, at 10:20 A.M.

GEORGE STEPHEN MINOT. Born in Cambridgeport, Mass., August 22, 1845.

After leaving college he studied at the Lawrence Scientific School, Cambridge, till July, 1869, when he travelled in the South and West till May, 1870. From September, 1870, to January 1, 1871, he was one of the firm of S. C. Tuckerman & Co., Chicago, Hardware Commission. January 1, 1871, he was admitted to the firm of Wales, Minot, & Co., 116 Federal Street, Boston, Hardware Manufacturers. At present, he is in the firm of Minot & Co., at 239 and 241 Franklin Street, Boston.

He was married, on the 27th of September, 1871, in Somerville, Mass., to Harriet M. Gaut, daughter of Samuel N. and Susan Gaut, of Somerville. His only child, Harriet Margaret Minot, born June 20, 1872, died at North Conway, N. H., July 29, 1873.

On the 8th of March, 1874, he went abroad, with his wife, visiting London, Paris, Vienna, and Berlin.

He is a Marshal of Zetland Lodge, and a member of Boston Commandery, F. & A. M.

Address : 239 Franklin Street, Boston, Mass.

WILLIAM MARTIN NEWTON. Born in Rochester, N. Y., June 23, 1845.

It seems, by the last Report, that "after leaving college he was for some time employed at some mills in Lake Village, N. H.; then studied Divinity, at Cambridge; gave that up; was in the insurance business, at Fitchburg, Mass.;" and, up to the year 1874, was an editor of the "Denver (Col.) Times;" but no answer has been received to the circulars sent him.

Address :

FRANCIS VOSE PARKER. Born in Roxbury, Mass., March 13, 1847.

After leaving college he was engaged as a clerk in the banking firm of Parker and Cobb, 36 Devonshire Street, Boston, until July, 1866, when he was admitted to the firm, and elected a member of the Boston Stock Exchange. He still continues in banking; and his travels have been mostly between his residence, No. 72 Chestnut Street, and his office, No. 78 Devonshire Street, Boston.

He was married, on the 14th of April, 1874, to Mary, only daughter of John and Anna G. Codman, of Boston, and has one child, Gertrude C. Parker, born in Boston, February 6, 1875.

Address : 78 Devonshire Street, Boston, Mass.

CHARLES WILLIAM PLIMPTON. Born in Walpole, Mass., February 5, 1847.

For the past five years he has resided either in New York or Brooklyn; and, during that time, has been engaged as a clerk in the firm of Aborn, Moir, & Co., 90 Franklin Street, New York, doing a domestic hosiery commission business.

Address : 90 Franklin Street, New York City.

JOHN RITCHIE. Born in New Bedford, Mass., January 5, 1844.

Left college in 1866, and returned to Brookline, Mass., where he was engaged with his father and brothers in the manufacture of philosophical instruments. His health failing, he started, on the 4th of April, 1870, for Colorado, and there remained, hunting and exploring in the Rocky Mountains, till the following November, when he returned. During the summer of 1871, he again travelled in Colorado, and also visited California; and his third and last trip to Colorado was made in 1873. Since then, he has been engaged in the firm of E. S. Ritchie & Sons, of which he is a member, at their manufactory in Brookline.

Address : Brookline, Mass.

LUCIUS WILLARD SAWYER. Born in Clarksville, Tenn., November 22, 1847.

He left Harvard, in 1865, and went to Europe, where he travelled through Ireland, England, and Scotland. He then read with a private tutor; and, in that year, entered the University of Oxford, as a Commoner of Lincoln. In 1866, he passed the college test examination, as well as the public University examination, "Respozions," when he travelled, and studied art, in France, Belgium, and Switzerland. In 1867, he continued his course, at Oxford, travelled in Germany, Italy, and over the Mediterranean, and competed for the Newdigate Prize. In 1868, he finished his college curriculum, at Oxford, pursued his continental studies, and, in the following year, returned to New York, to enter the firm of Sawyer, Wallace, & Co., at 47 Broad Street. During the years 1870-71, he was of the firm of L. W. Sawyer & Co., at Brentram, Texas.

In 1866, he was elected a member of the Oxford Union.

No further information has been received of him.

Address :

DOUGLAS SMYTH. Born in New York City, January 5, 1848.

He left college in March, 1867, went to New York, and there studied Architecture, with Mr. Richard M. Hunt. In April, 1868, he went to Paris; and, in October following, was admitted as a member of the École des Beaux-Arts. There he was alternately employed at his profession, and in making trips through France, Belgium, Holland, and Germany, until February, 1870, when he returned to New York, and entered the architect's office of Mr. E. D. Lindsey, 111 Broadway, N. Y. In 1871, he became a member of the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architecture.

At present, his principal offices are in Yonkers, where he resides with his family, while his branch office is in New York, a suburb of Yonkers. Through his genius and energy, the metropolis of Yonkers and its vicinity are rapidly being adorned with the highest style of art. His leisure moments have in part been occupied with rifle shooting, and in part with the study of Ornithology. As a result of the first, he has been elevated to the position of Captain and Inspector of Rifle Practice, 16th Batt., N. G. S. N. Y.; while, in the pursuit of the latter, he has already gained a more than local reputation for the perfection of his aviary, and his success in the gallinaceous line.

He was married, on the 28th of June, 1871, at Milford, Conn., to Miss Adelaide Thompson, daughter of Henry G. and Louisa H. Barnard Thompson, of New York City. His children are Douglas Grahame Smyth, born April 14, 1872, and Louis Kennedy Smyth, born December 27, 1875.

Address: 111 Broadway, New York City.

GILBERT HOLLAND STEWART. Born in Boston, Mass., March 15, 1847.

Immediately upon leaving college, he entered the Dane Law School, at Cambridge, remaining there one term. He then went to Galion, Crawford County, Ohio, where he arrived July 16, 1867. He at once resumed the study of the law, and remained in the law office of H. C. Carhart, Esq., until May 1, 1869. On the 5th of May, 1869, he was admitted to the Bar in Columbus, Ohio. He continued to reside and practised his profession in Galion, till April 15, 1873, when he removed to Columbus, at the same time forming a partnership with R. P. Woodruff, Esq., under the firm name of Woodruff & Stewart, at Columbus.

He was married on the 22d of June, 1875, at Worthington, Ohio, to Miss Clara L. Ogden, daughter of Professor John Ogden, of Worthington. Address: Columbus, Ohio.

THEODORE SUTRO. Born in Aix la Chapelle, Prussia, March 14, 1845.

He left college at the end of Freshman year, and entered a commercial life in Baltimore and New York, wherein he continued for three years. The very year that his former class graduated, 1868, he entered Harvard again, joining the class of 1871, in its Sophomore year, and with this class he was regularly graduated. Sutro is thus a member of the class of '71, though he is "loath," he says, "to break his allegiance to '68 and its many dear friends." After his graduation in 1871, he was engaged in business in Boston for a year and a half. In January, 1873, he entered the Columbia Law School, New York, and received his degree in the spring of 1874. Since December, 1874, he has been practising his profession at Room 47, 320 Broadway, New York.

Address: 320 Broadway, New York City.

WILLIAM WATTS TAYLOR. Born in Opelousas, La., March 19, 1847.

He writes that "after leaving Cambridge, in May, 1865, he returned home and devoted himself to regaining his health, then seriously impaired. By the following autumn he was nearly restored, but his physician advised so strongly against residence in the New England climate, that he reluctantly abandoned his intention of returning. He then entered as clerk in the house of Taylor & Brother, of which firm his father was senior member, and continued with them from that time without interruption. His father's death in June, 1869, caused a reorganization of the firm on the first of January following, when he formed a copartnership with his uncle, Mr. S. Lester Taylor, the firm title remaining unchanged." He is still with this firm as a Commission Merchant.

Address: Taylor & Brother, Cincinnati, Ohio.

JAMES JOHN VAN ALLEN. Born in New York City, March 20, 1847.

No answer has been received to the circular sent him; but it appears by the former Report that "After leaving college, at the end of Freshman year, he spent his time between his farm at New Hamburg, on the Hudson, and the City of New York, until August, 1869, when he went abroad on Mr. Lorillard's yacht, visiting India, China, and Japan, with the intention of sailing round the world. He was wrecked off the coast of Africa in a terrible storm, and soon after returned home for a few weeks; but in November, 1870, returned to Europe again."

I copy from the "New York Tribune" of March 15, 1876, the following:—

" MARRIED.

"VAN ALLEN-ASTOR. — On Tuesday, March 14, at Grace Church, by the Right Rev. Horatio Potter, Bishop of New York, assisted by the Rev. Morgan Dix, D.D., and the Rev. Cornelius Swope, D.D., James J. Van Alen to Emily, daughter of William Astor."

Address:

ARTHUR NATHANIEL WHITING. Born in Holliston, Mass., May 9, 1845.

He left college at the beginning of the Junior year, and soon after became a practical farmer in Bucks County, Penn., an occupation which he followed for a year. For three years after that, he was engaged in learning the cotton manufacturing business, at Fall River, Mass., and at Lewiston, Me. Since then he has been employed in the management of his estate.

He was married in Philadelphia, on the 10th of December, 1873, to Francis Lea, second daughter of Joseph and Susan Lea, of Philadelphia. His children are Ethel Whiting, born November 6, 1874, and Marion Lea Whiting, born November 13, 1875.

Residence: 6 Louisburg Square, Boston.

Address: 53 Devonshire Street, Boston, Mass.

CLASS FUND.

The following is a brief statement of our monetary affairs since the last Commencement Day.

A. D. Chaudler in account with the Class of 1868, from June 30, 1875, to May 1, 1876.

Cash received from subscriptions	$604.00
Cash paid for expenses, travelling, Commencement, printing, postage, Class Report, and sundries	355.60
Balance, drawing interest in Savings-Bank	$248.40
The Class also holds an interest in a mortgage, ante , p. 5.

I request the appointment of auditors at our next meeting to examine and report upon all the Class accounts.

CLASS SUBSCRIPTION FUND.

The duty of obtaining subscriptions to this Fund was assigned to me on Commencement Day, 1874. The amount collected prior to that date was $360.00. Since then the following sums have been subscribed and paid over to the Trustees.

J. W. DENNY	$200.00
F. R. HALSEY	1500.00
E. HUDEKOPER	50.00
F. P. KINNICUTT	20.00
C. D. PALMER	15.00
M. REED	10.00
J. L. SEWARD	5.00
J. W. TILTON	10.00
L. S. TUCKERMAN	25.00
	<hr/>
	$1835.00
Prior Subscriptions	360.00
	$2195.00

About $100,000 have been subscribed to this Fund, the income of which meets the more pressing needs of the University. It is well known that, apart from this, large benefactions have been made to Harvard, but they are mostly devoted to special objects. The purpose of the Class Subscription Fund is to afford an income to be used for the general wants of the University, and it is expected that every graduate will subscribe to this fund, be his contributions large or small. In some instances, Classes have given to this fund their separate Class Fund.
